12 Must-Take Photos Before, During, and After Your Move in Central Florida

Pre-move "before" photos

1. Family portrait in front of the old house: A final portrait in front of your previous home serves as a bookend to that chapter of your life.
2. "Empty room" photos: Take pictures of each family member in their new, empty rooms. This creates a sense of place and allows you to document the start of the new space before it's filled with memories.
3. Packing chaos: Capture candid shots of the family working together to pack, with everyone getting involved and having fun with the process.

New home "after" photos

4. The "arrival" photo: A classic, but still a great one. Take a family photo in front of the new house, smiling and waving as you arrive for the first time.
5. First meal" photos: Take a picture of the family having their first meal on the floor in the new kitchen or dining area.
6. New room photos: Take photos of each family member enjoying their new rooms. This is a great way to celebrate their personal space.
7. Outdoor spaces: If you have a backyard, capture photos of the family playing in it together, whether it's on the swing set, by the pool, or just relaxing on the grass.
8. Special features: Take photos of special features of your new home that are particularly exciting for your family. This could be a great window view, a large backyard, or even the new laundry room, complete with a fun family picture with the new appliances.

Other creative photo ideas

9. "Hands together" photo: Capture a photo of the whole family's hands together in a single frame, whether it's on a new table, over a beloved pet, or as a symbol of unity.
10. " Key to the new home" photo: Take a picture of the family holding the new house key together or as a symbol of ownership.
11. "Welcome home" photos: Have each family member write a "Welcome Home" sign or a drawing of what they love about the new house and take a photo of them holding the sign or drawing.
12. "Time capsule" photos: You can create a time capsule with photos and other memorabilia that you can revisit when you move out of this house in the future.
